(Please read guidance note 2)

Granting the licence for the premises could exacerbate existing crime and disorder problems in the area, as research indicates a correlation between alcohol-related establishments and increased crime rates, including violence and public order offences. This is particularly concerning given that the area is a conservation area and designated as a no-alcohol zone due to already challenging behaviours resulting from drink and drug use on the street. Additionally, the nearby roads pose a significant risk, particularly during late hours when individuals may be leaving the premises intoxicated. Hazardous blind bending junctions, combined with speeding traffic and impaired judgment due to alcohol consumption, increase the likelihood of accidents, jeopardising public safety.

The operation of the premises may also lead to public nuisance issues such as littering, loitering, and anti-social behaviour, disrupting the harmony and safety of the neighbourhood. Moreover, the proposed activities, especially during late hours, are anticipated to result in increased noise levels, causing disturbances to nearby residents and affecting their peace and quiet. The exacerbation of existing traffic congestion and parking difficulties further adds to the inconvenience for residents, particularly considering that parking permits don't apply from 5 pm each night and all day on Sundays.

The neighbourhood, being a conservation area and a designated no-alcohol zone, has already experienced loud late nights from temporary events, which, while manageable on a few occasions, would become concerning if they were to occur regularly. It's alarming that the premise holder only engaged with the neighbourhood about their plans three weeks ago and attributed this delay to miscommunication rather than seeking consistent community input. The proposed change from originally planned work offices which would have operated from 9 am to 5 pm raises concerns, especially considering that this change is still pending discussion with planning authorities.

Given these multifaceted concerns, it's imperative for the Licensing Authority to thoroughly evaluate the potential impacts of granting the premises licence and prioritise the safety, well-being, and interests of the local community.
