Part B

Background

1. The LGSCO is the final stage for complaints about councils, all adult social care providers (including care homes and home care agencies) and some other organisations providing local public services. They are a free service. They investigate complaints in a fair and independent way, and do not take sides.
2. Their annual review letter for 2020/21 is appended to this report, and notes that there was one upheld complaint during the year.

Upheld Complaint

3. The upheld complaint (ref. 19-007-447) related to a complaint that the Council wrongly placed the complainant on the corporate warning register (a register that officers can refer to that records potential risks when visiting properties or dealing with individuals, such as abusive or violent behaviour) and failed to properly review the restrictions on her. The investigation found that while the Council was at fault for including one issue it should not have, it explained why it placed the complainant on the register and why it was entitled to do so. The Council also separately responded to the high volumes of contacts from the complainant by setting out restrictions on her, and there was no evidence of fault in how it did this. The Council agreed to apologise to the complainant for including an issue on the register that it should not have.
